Course Descriptions for May Term Courses

AR256 Introduction to Typography (3 credits)

This course is an introduction to typography by using the history of print and type. Students begin with printing and binding the sketchbook to be used in the course. The course requires knowledge of Adobe Illustrator and InDesign. Important emphasis is on readability, legibility, principles of layout, color, contrast, type anatomy, illustrative techniques using typography, and a group project magazine layout. May count as an elective in the graphic design major.

Prerequisites: AR 141, 241I, 241ID, and 241P
