

Fall 2020 Room and Board

In early June, we shared the plans for returning to campus and how fall 2020 will look different to help keep you healthy amid the pandemic. One of those ways is to complete the semester online after Thanksgiving break. Although classes will continue, most students will not return to the residence halls.

Residence hall rates for fall 2020 will be as follows:

- Students who return to campus on August 13 or 14 in stage 1 will pay the published rate of $2,080 for a double room or $3,117 for a single room. These students will be notified by University personnel that they are able to return at this time. In addition, students permitted by the University to return to campus in early January 2021, prior to the spring semester, will also pay the published rate for fall 2020.
- Students who return to campus on August 26 or later will pay $1,803 for a double room or $2,701 for a single room.

The dining commons will open on August 13, when the first group of students return, providing three healthy meals each day that are served following CDC health guidelines.

Students who return to campus on August 13 or 14 in stage 1 will pay the following published board rates:

- Meal Plan A - $2,364
- Meal Plan B - $2,212
- Meal Plan C - $771

Students who return to campus on August 26 or later will pay the following reduced board rates:

- Meal Plan A - $2,049
- Meal Plan B - $1,917
- Meal Plan C - $668

Spring room and board rates will remain as published.

Thank you for your patience and understanding as we work through the details of our return to community. We will continue to keep you updated as we finalize plans. We hope you are as excited for fall 2020 as we are.
